

Valentine's Day

We rushed to see Mary,
to give her a Valentine.
There was quite a bit of pushing
so she made us form a line.

Fred didn't hear Mary,
when she said, 'Fred you're sweet.'
Her mouth was stuffed with chocolate
that she'd begun to eat.

Then Bill gave Mary flowers,
but unfortunately they'd died.
Mary looked rather uncomfortable
when Bill suddenly cried.

Mary then accepted Tim's gift
and said he was very kind.
The gift was wrapped in newspaper,
but she claimed she didn't mind.

After that she opened my present
and her eyes went wide with fear.
She screamed out, 'It's a spider!'
and I replied, 'I love this time of year.'